Code mixing is a familiar thing in the conversation around us. Code mixing can be found in various community groups from children to adults. This research focuses on code mixing used by Renatta Moeloek on YouTube Podcast Deddy Corbuzier. The purpose of this research is firstly to describe the type of code mixing used by Renatta Moeloek on Dedy Corbuzier's YouTube Podcast, secondly to describe the reasons for using code mixing by Renatta Moeloek on Deddy Corbuzier's YouTube Podcast. This research is qualitative research and uses content analysis method to collect data. This data is obtained from all of Renatta Moeloek's conversations which contain code mixing. This study uses the theory of Muysken (2000) and Grosjean in Jendra (2010). In this study, the researcher found 3 types of code mixing that are insertion, alternation, and congruent lexicalization. The researcher also found 5 reasons for using code mixing that are quoting someone, marking and emphasizing someone, including and excluding someone, raising status, and showing language. The researcher concludes that insertion is the dominant type of code mixing used and raising the status is the dominant reason for using code mixing used.
