A. Introduction

1. Background of the Study

Valley of the Wolves Palestine is about a Turkish undercover agent who hunts down Israeli commanders responsible for the killing of nine activists who died in the real life May 31 attack on a ship that tried to bust through the blockade of Gaza as part of an international flotilla. Eight Turkish activists and a Turkish American youth were killed when Israeli commandos boarded one ship, in international waters. Mavi Marmara ship become eminent when ship transporting human aid for this Palestinian is attacked military of Israel at May 2010 ago. Its target in order to aids which have been collected cannot reach for the people of Palestinian. Tragedy of Mavi Marmara represents the part of association for Gaza Freedom Flotilla that causing enrage of world.

There are four reasons why the researcher interested in studying this movie: first is because this is realistic movie. Valley of the Wolves Palestine represents realistic and historical movie. It gives us the awareness about history of social condition happened in Palestine. Besides, it gives us the information about human tragedy which has ever happened in Mavi Marmara ship, May 2010 ago.

The second reason is moral value. The movie tells also a power struggle between a Turkish agent, Palestine, and an Israeli commando. In this movie, Simone, an American tour guide and daughter of Jewish parents, comes to understand the truth about Palestine as the movie unfolds. She represents the American individualism, learning about the human tragedies in Palestine, and discovers humanism as she gets forced to live among Arabs. Through the movie, a great deal moral messages between the lines in this movie. The crimes, which are happen in this film, give us the wisdom and increase our consciousness toward social impact later.

The third reason is because actor in this movie “Polat Alemdar” played by Necati Sasmaz, who had never acted before, whose voice is dubbed by another actor, described as the Turkish James Bond. Therefore, millions of young Turks idolize him, imitating his mannerisms and speech.

The last, crime of humanity that becomes the major issue of the movie reflected properly. In this movie, Polad Alemdar found the crime of humanity in Society of Palestine. This crime exists as immoral conduct from Israeli soldiers to Palestine. They burn villages, enslaving Palestine, put in jail, kills women, and children. The movie tells the existence of crime of humanity symbolized by Ben Eliezer, military Commander of Israeli soldiers.

The researcher uses sociology theory to analyses this movie, because the movie tells crime of humanity, with relates to the social and political problem. This is agreement with social life, especially focuses on politic, culture, and crime of humanity in social living, which is happened in this movie.

Based on the descriptions above, the researcher will conduct a research entitle Crimes of Humanity in Valley of the Wolves Palestine Movie (2011) Directed by Zubeyr Sasmaz: A Sociological Approach.

   a. Narrative Element

      a) Character and Characterization

      Kennedy (1983:45) said that character presumably; it is an imagined person who inhabits a story. Character is imaginary of the author, so characterization is the most important parting developing a story. Kennedy (1983:45) also divides character is mostly dominated the part of the story, while the minor character support the identifying of major character. It can be concluded the character is a person which made by the author to play a story and deliver the idea of the author.

      b) Setting

      There are two major categories of setting. Those are setting of time and setting of place. Setting of time is a period, in which the action occurs, while setting of place refers to where the action of a story takes place.

   c) Plot

      Plot is a plan or an outline of the events in a novel, which stresses on the causality of the events. Plot is arrangement of the details and incidents in a story. Most plots have an identifiable beginning, middle and end.
d) Point of View

Point of view is the way how the narrator tells the story (Kennedy, 1993:18) According to Kennedy (1983:19), point of view is used to identify the narrator of the story and describe any part in the events and any limits placed upon the author’s knowledge. In literary work, there are two kinds of point of view. First, participants (first person narrator), the author introduces himself as character in the story. Second, non participant (third person narrator) in which the author does not introduce or involve himself as a character of the story (Barnet, 1961:38).

e) Style

Style refers to the individual traits or characteristic of pieces of writing to a researcher’s particular ways of managing words that we come to recognize as habitual or customary (Kennedy, 1983:74).

f) Theme

The theme of a story is whatever general idea or in sight the entire story reveals in a literary work (Kennedy, 1983:103). Theme is not only a message and it may be what happenings on the story or what the story is about.

b. Technical Elements of the Movie

According to Bordwell and Thompson (1990: 126) technical elements movie consists of Mise-en-Scene, cinematography, sound, and editing.

b. Notion of Sociology of Literature

Sociology of literature is one of literary approaches which can be applied in the study of literary works sociology of literature is basically aimed to analyze literary works in terms of the author’s social status, the availability of markets, the stipulation of types of Sociology of literature is an approach to analyze a work of art from the sociological point of view. It is a kind of approach that considered the social and cultural aspect of society in literary works is a social institution created by author by using language as a medium.

The most rule concept of sociology of literature is that literature work is a mirror of the society. However, literature work describes the reality in subjective point of view and author develops them with his imagination and ideas about society. Literary study has the more dominant in the literary work. The researcher expresses his thought, view, idea, aspiration and experience toward the society through his work thus, in creating the imaginative work and a researcher combines a social reality around him and his own imagination. The combination is called a literary work.

Wellek and Warren (1956:96) classified sociology of literature into three: (1) the sociology of the researcher: his social provenance and status, social ideology, the profession and institutions of literature, (2) the sociology of the work: its social content, implications and social purpose, and (3) the sociology of the audience: the actual social influence of literature on society. Swingewood also has his own classification on sociology of literature. He classifies it into three major principles, too. They are: (1) the sociology of the society or community: literature serve as the mirror to the age, (2) the sociology of the author: literature reflects the social situation of the author, and (3) the sociology of the readers: the readers of certain literary work.

c. Major Principles of Sociology of Literature

There are numerous concepts of sociology of literature that lie as the theory and major principled in sociology perspective. On of the theories is proposed by Alan Swingewood. He proposes three perspectives in formulating the major principles of sociology of the literature. They are: (a) sociology of the society and community, (b) sociology of the author, and (c) sociology of the readers.

1) Sociology of the Society and Community

   Literary work is said to be the cultural manifestation of society. It cannot be separated from social values, politics, economy, social, philosophy and religion. It is a reflection of human life and experiences and is created within certain culture. Literary work therefore is related to cultural facts. Plato (in Swingewood and Laurenson, 1972:23) states about the conception of limitation, literature provides the reflection of the society. In relation to society, literature basically fits a particular type of society (Swingewood and Laurenson, 1972:24).

2) Sociology of the Author

   Wellek and Warren (1956:97) state that “the social allegiance, attitude and ideology of a researcher can be studied not only in his writings but also, frequently in biographical extra literary documents. The researcher has been a citizen, has pronounced on questions social and political importance, and has taken part in the issues of the time”. This gives an understanding that the social involvement of the author can be studied not only from his work but also from biographical documents since he is a member of society who has his own opinion on political and social issues which influences the creation of his work.

3) Sociology of the Readers

   The sociology of the readers is closely related to who are the readers of certain literary works. It is related, too, with the work itself. A particular work will have a certain class of readers. It can be inferred that the work of literature may be read by certain class of readers according to its content, theme, issue which is raised by the author, etc. thus sociology of the readers also concern with whether there is any class diversity of readers who read a certain work of literature.

4) Crime

“Crime is the breach of rules or laws for which some governing authority (via mechanisms such as legal systems) can ultimately prescribe a conviction” (http://www.wikipedia.com). Individual human societies may each define crime and crimes differently, in different localities (state, local, international), at different time stages of the so-called "crime" (planning, disclosure, supposedly intended, supposedly prepared, uncompleted, completed or futuristically proclaimed after the "crime").

A normative definition views crime as deviant behavior that violates prevailing norms cultural standards prescribing how humans ought to behave normally. This approach considers the complex realities surrounding the concept of crime and seeks to understand how changing social, political, psychological, and economic conditions may affect changing definitions of crime and the form of the legal, law-enforcement, and penal responses made by society.

Not all the aspect expressed completely on the movie, here the director, based on the theme and his point of view, he wants to show the real life and condition of Palestinian peoples. he wants to tell about the real condition of people of Palestine from the brutality of Israel. He also wants to tell that in the middle of war in Gaza, Muslim never leave their God and still believe that God (Allah) will help them.

The social aspect on the Valley of the Wolves Palestine movie is coming from the process of social Islamization in Palestine differs somewhat from that in other Arab countries due to the profound impact of external factors over the past three decades. First, the policies and practices of the Israeli military occupation have forced Palestinians to adapt their daily behavior to deal with domination by a coercive power. Second, the culture of the Israeli society—with its currents of European secular thought but also the ascendance of Jewish religious revivalism—has had a bearing on Palestinian thinking. Third, the combination of externally-financed economic modernization and security-motivated restrictions on movement has widened the social gap between a wealthier urban society with access to services and facilities and a poorer, geographically isolated rural society.

Muslim is the most dominant and Jews become the next religion who lives in Palestine. There are also the differences in status between the high social status and middle class, but people almost can not find the differences after the war between Palestine and Israel.

The political aspect is that Palestinian Islamists and Secularists able to live together where Muslim can get their freedom for pray in mosque and everywhere they wants. Islamic Palestinian do the pray in a certain place in Palestine and after Israel rules the entire political aspect, people must obey their rules, such as not all people able to enter Palestine without Israel permission.

Economical aspect based on the history of Islam, Islam enters the world through commerce. On the Valley of the Wolves Palestine movie can be seen that people in Palestine live for trading and breed.

Cultural aspect of Palestine is closely related to those of the nearby Levantine countries such as Lebanon, Syria, and Jordan, and the Arab World. Cultural contributions of Palestinian peoples related with art, literature, music, costume and cuisine express the distinctiveness of the Palestinian experience, and flourish despite the geographical separation between Palestinian territories, Israel and the Diaspora. The culture of Palestine people based on Islam views appears on the movie such as, the dance of art of Muslim when they are praying for Allah and shape of the building. People in Palestine especially people in middle class, who live in a beautiful building from stone.

The religious aspect is that Palestinian people mostly are Muslim and Palestine is a small country where there are also Jews and Christian. The domination of Islam also can be seen through the dress of the people in Palestine. The women use Jilbab or women scarf and the men uses syurban. In Palestine there is a certain tragedy, where there is conflict between Jews and Muslim and Israel. Jew peoples will be killed by Israel and reputed as a rebellion.
