

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION, EDUCATIONAL IMPLICATION AND SUGGESTIONS

In this chapter, the researcher presents some conclusions and suggestions. After analyzing the novel Eleven Minutes by Paulo Coelho, the researcher makes several conclusions and suggestions as follows.

A. Conclusion

The researcher has responded to research questions based on the author's research on the type of struggle women faced and the fight of the main character in the novel Eleven Minutes to achieve a better life. Here's what I showed up with: The first is a struggle to accept life as it is, while the second is a struggle to achieve a dream.

According to the analysis in Chapter IV, Maria is a woman who is struggling for a better life for herself. She is a beautiful young woman who can attract boys in a variety of ways. She has been regarded as a smart, brave, and lonely woman. Maria knew that because she came from low-cost family background, she would have to work hard to provide for her family. She has worked in a variety of capacities, including as a shop assistant in Brazil and as an artist, before deciding to go to Switzerland. However, she does end herself as a salsa dancer in a cheap club in Brazil and then tries her hand at modeling. She also chooses to be a prostitute because she was unable to find a job that was suitable for her. Her needs for love and belonging are fulfilled when she meets Ralf, a painter who teaches her about love from a new perspective. She is aware of all the consequences and is prepared to cope with them. She is happy in her current position.

B. Educational Implications

Based on the conclusion of the study, there is an never give up spirit in Maria starting from her school days and being abandoned by her first love, and all the tragedies in her life turned into motivation, starting from her becoming a shop assistant in Brazil, establishing many relationships with people. and she managed to vacation in the city of his dreams, namely Rio De Janeiro. There she met a club owner in Switzerland, then Maria decided to go to Switzerland and work as a salsa dancer at the man's club, but who would have thought that the man had cheated on her, first she was offered a job as a famous artist but was only hired as a salsa dancer. at his cheap club. Finally, Maria chose her way of life as a professional prostitute. If you have something different from others and you have to show everyone, that you are different from others, and you need more struggle if you want to achieve your dreams and change your life, you can see how difficult it is for her to change her life to make a better life, How difficult it was for Maria to accept that she had been fooled by someone she had only met while on vacation in Rio de Janeiro. She didn't know what else to do except follow the man's instructions. Maria doesn't want her life to continue like that, she thinks she should finish her contract soon so she can quickly return to Brazil or find another job. Handayani and Novianto (2004:163) suggest that more men are competent, well-oriented, strong, involved, competitive, and trustworthy compared to women. This situation is unfair to women, it also shows that in the past there has been gender inequality. It happens from one generation to the next before their inequalities are understood. This supports the development of a belief called feminism. In particular, the feminist movement contributes to the nature of women and is related to women's liberation in general. The movement of women in many ways, such as political, social, economic, and cultural, to achieve equal rights with men. Maria will continue to fulfill her dream of changing her life for the better, she is a strong woman who never gives up. So keep chasing your dreams as high as possible, never stop believing that if you want to do it, everything will be possible.

C. Suggestions

The researcher has several suggestions for this study based on the above conclusions. They must learn about women's struggles in this case. Students in English and Literature, in particular, are required to be familiar with and critique other forms of novels.

Eleven Minutes is a novel that is truly motivating for us because it has many life ethical values that are life lessons and have interesting topics to explore. This novel not only tells the story of a young girl who is struggling alone, but it also teaches how to become a strong person and how to be patient with our lives. This research paper is far from perfect after analyzing this novel and making conclusions because the researchers are very limited. The researcher hopes that this study will inspire others, particularly other researchers, to examine similar issues that appear in other novels and to respect novels about life, particularly the struggle with life.
