ABSTRACT

This study focuses on (1) the form of anger expressions in the comments column (2) the intention of anger expressions used by social media users in each comment. This study is a qualitative descriptive study in which the data are collected through observation and documentation. The data used in this study are 43 expressions containing anger expressions in the Free West Papua instagram comments column. The writer uses the Tone Analyzer website to classify the anger comments. The data were analyzed using Madlow's (1972) theory to find the form of anger expression and Searle's theory to find the intention of anger expression. The results show that of the 43 data that the research collected, of all the data collected, more than 50% of the data dominated, namely Direct form (51%) Thinly veiled form (47%), and Indirect form (2%). The result of this study also showed 12 intention of anger expression. They are Asserting (9%), Swearing (16%), Commanding (9%), Criticizing (7%), Mocking (19%), Questioning (9%), Blaming (5%), Suggesting (5%), Threatening (5%), Refusing (9%), Disbelieving (5%), Complaining (2%).
